About Winnie-the-Pooh and His Friends

The real Winnie-the-Pooh won't be found on a video, in a movie, or on a T-shirt. Since 1987, Pooh and four of his best friends—Eeyore, Piglet, Kanga, and Tigger—have been living at The New York Public Library.

Long before Walt Disney turned Pooh and his friends into movie stars, Christopher Robin Milne, a little boy living in England, received a small stuffed teddy bear *1 on his first birthday. He named the bear "Edward Bear" (it was later renamed Winnie-the-Pooh). Following Edward came the rest of the stuffed animals, which Christopher loved and played with throughout his childhood.

One day, Christopher's father, A. A. Milne, and his friend, an illustrator named E. H. Shepard, decided that these animals, and two other imaginary friends, Owl and Rabbit, would make fine characters in a bedtime story. From that day, they began creating a series based on these animals, and the character of Pooh first made his appearance in a newspaper story published in 1925. A book followed a year later, and since then the series has been enjoyed by millions of children and adult readers around the world.

Winnie-the-Pooh and his friends are now a vital part of the Polonsky Exhibition of The New York Library's Treasures, which opened in 2021. Pooh and his friends are as happy as when they lived in the Hundred Acre Wood.

Winnie-the-Pooh Timeline

- (1) August 21: Christopher Robin Milne was born.
- 1921 August 21: A teddy bear (Winnie-the-Pooh), from Harrods in London, was given to Christopher Robin Milne on his first birthday.
- 1925: Pooh first appeared in the London Evening News on Christmas Eve in a story called "The Wrong Sort of Bees."
- (2): A book, "Winnie-the-Pooh," was published.
- 1947: Elliot Macrae, former President of Dutton Publishing, an American publishing company, visited A. A. Milne at his house in England, and saw the original toy animals that inspired Winnie-the-Pooh. A. A. Milne loaned them to Elliott Macrae and the real Pooh and his friends toured the United States to increase sales.
- 1956: The real Pooh and his friends were put on display at Dutton Publishing in New York City.
- 1969: The real Pooh and his friends made a temporary visit back to England for an exhibition of the drawings of E. H. Shepard, on the occasion of the illustrator's 90th birthday.
- 1987: The real Pooh and his friends were donated to The New York Public Library by Dutton Publishing and their display for the public started.
- 1998: Pooh and his friends became the center of international attention when a British Member of Parliament noticed them during a trip to New York City and argued that they should be returned to England. In the end, the United States and England agreed that Pooh and his friends were happy and healthy on American soil, and it was unanimously decided that they would remain at The New York Public Library.
- 2015–2016: Pooh and his friends received professional conservation treatment. They returned to the library on August 3, 2016.
- ( 3 )-present: Pooh and his friends are displayed as part of the library's new major permanent exhibition, the Polonsky Exhibition of The New York Public Library's Treasures.
